Pope Canonizes Two New Saints

Rome, May 21.—The final ceremonies in the canonization of Clement Hoffbauer, the German Redemptorist, and Joseph Oriol, a Spanish priest of Barcelona, took place at St. Peter's yesterday, and were witnessed by a vast throng of people. Special tribunes had been erected for the family of the Pope, members of the Diplomatic Corps, the Roman aristocracy, and the Knights of Malta.

The Pope entered the Basilica at the head of a striking procession.

The Black Mystery

Thousands of pages have been printed about the Negro—ranging all the way from the jokes of Bones and Tambo to the ethnological report of Professor Highbrow of Blahah University.

But the truth is yet to be told. Because the Negro is an unsolvable mystery.

"The Unknowable Negro," by Harris N. Dickson, is the best and fairest article of its kind we have seen.

For the first time the Negro is fairly written about by a man who knows no Mason-Dixon line. Judge Dickson might be called a Nationalist. He has lived much of his life in the North and has the Northern point of view. His home is in the very heart of the Negro Belt—and he knows the Southern viewpoint. His wonderful article is the comprehensive result of unbiased thought, thorough research, based on facts and conditions—not on prejudiced opinions.

Don't fail to read what he says in

June—On Sale Now

Some of twenty other great features of this number are:

White Coal.—A fine big article on "water farming" by John L. Mathews. The fuel and power supply of the near future is water—and even now a trust is trying to grab it. If you don't wake up your great-grandchildren will freeze to death.

Watermelons.—Charles Edward Russell tells just how the railroad makes money and how freight rates affect your living expenses.

Eight splendid stories: by Rex Beach, Parker Fillmore, Charles G. D. Roberts, and other leading authors. The best of the best fiction.
